

– SAVE THE DATE –

The Securities Law Program of The Catholic University of America's Columbus School of Law, with the support of Covington & Burling, presents a panel discussion:

“High Frequency Trading: Why is it done? What are its dangers? Can we protect our markets?”

James A. Brigagliano

Partner, Sidley Austin LLP; Former Deputy Director, SEC Division of Trading and Markets

Christopher R. Concannon

Executive Vice President, Virtu Financial LLC; Former Executive Vice President NASDAQ

Theodore R.Lazo

Managing Director & Assoc. General Counsel, SIFMA

Moderator

David A. Lipton

Professor of Law and Director, Securities Law Program, The Catholic University of America

Wednesday, October 3, 2012 5:30 p.m.

COVINGTON

620 Eighth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10018-1405

The discussion is open to all and will be followed by a reception.

Information: Tom Haederle, 202-319-5438

Click here to register: <http://www.law.edu/studentlife/securitieslawprogram.cfm>