

For those of you I have yet to have the pleasure of meeting, my name is Celanire Flagg. I am a textbook Enneagram 8, but not a textbook middle child nor Southern Californian. I am thrilled to be joining you at law school after a few years in the workforce as a tech consultant.

I am running for the 1L Representative position because I enjoy serving you, my classmates, by planning events and opportunities that will enhance our first year of law school. In this transition, returning to school or in-person learning, I will strive to provide the support we need to make it a successful year.

The guiding principles of my campaign are: Wellness, Communication and Experience.

Wellness, including physical, mental, and emotional, is vital to our success as both law students and people. I believe that if we do not keep our complete selves healthy, we are unable to bring our full selves to the table. As such, offering opportunities that contribute to our wellness will be a guiding principle for me as a class representative.

Communication that is clear, concise, and accessible is essential to take advantage of the opportunities that student government offers. As we are all bombarded with information, I vow to clearly communicate class information through a variety of platforms.

Experience serving on student government as an undergrad will allow me to immediately work on initiatives important to our 1L class. Additionally, I planned and executed my company's annual service day, organizing over 300 volunteer opportunities across Chicago, and served on committees that provided feedback to the C-Suite about the experience of the entry level workers. I will make myself available to listen to your concerns.

I would appreciate your vote for 1L class representative. Vote Celanire, Monday - Wednesday, September 6 - September 8, 2021.
