

Zeena Abdul-Rahman
Branch Chief, Investment Company Regulation Office
Division of Investment Management
U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission

Zeena Abdul-Rahman is a Branch Chief in the Investment Company Regulation Office in the SEC's Division of Investment Management. In this role, she manages rulemaking teams focused on Investment Company Act regulations and provides advice on policy initiatives affecting the asset management industry. Zeena was a key member of the team that developed the Commission's May 2022 proposed rulemaking to enhance disclosures by certain investment advisers and investment companies about ESG investment practices. Before joining the Division in 2015, she was an associate in the Washington, D.C. office of Dechert LLP. Zeena received a B.A. from the University of Tennessee and a J.D. from the George Washington University Law School.
